Our story

We provide an integrated value chain that includes processing, sterilization and packaging of herbs and spices, in addition to managing after-sales services for our customers who prefer to buy organic products.

We implement a very strict traceability system that ensures product ID from cultivation to consumption. We have supervisors and specialists who closely follow each stage of the supply chain including cultivation, harvesting, drying, production, processing, packing and export, and this is of course in addition to the regular periodic inspection carried out by our inspection bodies to follow up on the implementation of organic farming regulations and procedures.

We serve the world's largest buyers with complete reliability. We prefer to develop new business partnerships centered around long-term value creation, sustainability and transparency.
